History of the College

Regis College is a Catholic Liberal Arts and Science College founded on May 27, 1927 by the Congregation of the Sisters of St. Joseph of Boston. The College is named after the CSJ founder, Sister Mary Regis Casserly. Regis College is set on a beautiful 132-acre campus, located in the suburbs of Weston, Massachusetts.

Regis College is dedicated to providing its students with opportunities for spiritual growth and community service experience, as well as their academic studies. Regis College spent eighty years paving its way on education as a women's college. In the fall of 2007, Regis opened its arms and began admitting undergraduate men. With over 1800 undergraduate and postgraduate co-ed students now at Regis, there is a tremendous feeling of community that grows every year.

In the summer of 2012, Regis College again expanded its horizons and embraced the technological era. In Fall 2012 with the new "iPad Initiative," all faculty and undergraduate students received iPads and enhancing education in and out of the classroom.

Students, faculty and staff alike strive to represent the mission of the College, which states, "Regis College, through education in the arts, sciences, and professions, empowers women and men to challenge themselves academically, to serve and to lead. A Catholic college, Regis is a diverse and welcoming community guided by the values of the Sisters of St. Joseph of Boston."

A Message From President Hays

Dear Class of 2013,

A long time ago, it seems, you were born, learned to speak and then to write. When you entered Regis, you began writing a story, the true story of your knowing and willing soul, your believing soul, as a subject in a series of predications and actions. Some educators call the framework the plot of the arts and sciences themselves, the liberal arts.

I have seen that story take shape on your faces as you left the familiar and explored new horizons, discovered other cultures, learned about other races, other religions; some of you even traveled to other countries. Some of you chose academic disciplines you never would have chosen four years ago. One of your teachers noted that the whole of The Great Gatsby could be understood as a sentence. Another professor explained how to take a medical history of a patient and use it to help determine treatment in the present, and a third pointed to history itself as a treasure of cultural heritage. Even mathematical formulas and biochemistry had histories and stories in them - the tales of discovery.

Two of your schoolmates died unexpectedly in tragic accidents early last autumn. At the time of their deaths, both Darner and Mike were age twenty. Their stories ended far too soon. This shook you; you perceived the beginning of the end and questioned, again. You matured instantly, with the knowledge that human life is not infinite, at least not in its physical, historical form. As seniors you felt an impetus to recapitulate your story and interpret it afresh, now with a glance at eternity in the mix.

This yearbook helps you know that in graduating from college you are not at the end but at the beginning, a commencement. You have grown into young adults able to construct new narratives through your words, deeds and decisions. What awaits you is a whole new story based on your acquired self-knowledge, your earned education, on the choices you make. This story is crafted not only by the movement pen, iPad or videocam, but with your life, your relationships and work.

What story will you write? What will be your theme, your mythos? Will it be make-believe or will it be a deep abiding, even symbolic narrative built on meaning? How will your education inform the plot of your self-knowledge, self-giving, and labor in the world, disclosing the infinite embedded in the finite? I ask you to keep up the habit of reflection and to continue practicing critical analysis in what you choose to include. I ask you to come back to Regis and share your story as you go along so other students can learn as you have. As a Catholic institution of higher education, Regis will always be your community, your wellspring, your mother lode, your nursery of educated persons making their way in the world, telling their stories in how they "write" their lives. It's an exciting plot, your future. And your new story has just begun.

Antoinette M. Hays, PhD, RN
President, Regis College

Our Story

In this yearbook, we hope you reflect on our story here at Regis College. From our first move-in day and drive up the hill, to our last all-nighter, to shaking the hand of President Hays and proudly walking off the stage with our diplomas in hand; we encourage you to remember this year's theme – "Our Story."

Look back and think how far we have come and where our story will take us next. We are a part of Regis College's story just as much as it is a part of ours. We will use our education, experience, and Regis Pride to shape a future we can call uniquely our own.

We all have our own stories, yet these are interwoven with our connection to Regis College. The diversity in our stories matches the diversities in our population and world views. As we close our final chapter here at Regis College, we open a new one – a sequel that may be very different from our time here, but shaped by our story nonetheless.

Let's grab our pens, sign yearbooks, take pictures to hide away in our journals, close the last few pages of our chapter at Regis College, and buy another journal to start a new story!

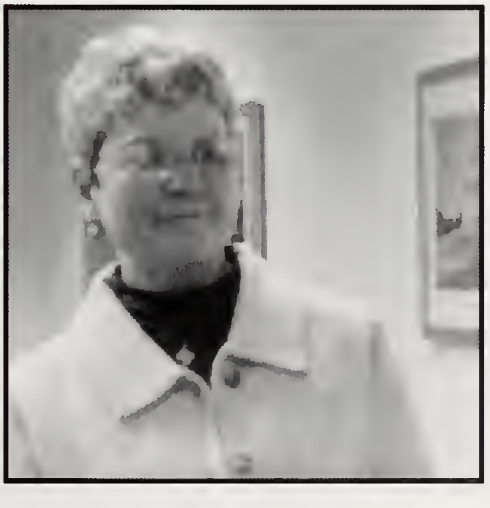
Dedication

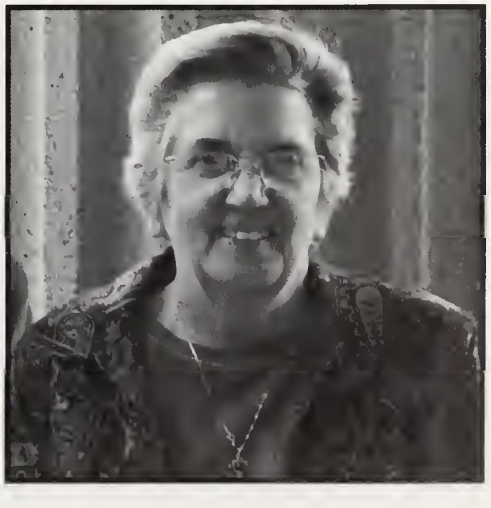
The Congregation of the Sisters of Saint Joseph landed in America in 1873 during a time of poverty and illness to better thy "Dear Neighbor." They planted their roots in Boston and four days later, they opened a Catholic school for girls. Eventually, this would become the first co-ed Catholic school in Boston. The Sisters again saw the need to provide education for women and opened the doors to Regis College in September 1927. Many of the Sisters called Regis College their home until December 2010 when St. Joseph's Hall started its transition to office and residential living space.

The Sisters of Saint Joseph of Boston have been fundamental in beginning, developing, and maintaining the spirit of Regis College. They have sponsored Regis College as a ministry of spiritual and intellectual growth. Today, the Sisters continue to instill their notion of the "Dear Neighbor" as well as the values of "Welcoming All," "Making a Difference," "Loving God and Others," and "Excellence with Gentleness" upon each and every member of our community.

In addition to Regis College, the Sisters have founded multiple institutions, such as the Bethany Hill School in Framingham with which the Regis community has formed a strong bond. Through service learning, community involvement, and the life lessons originally taught by the Sisters, Regis students, faculty, and staff have become avid participants of the values of the Sisters of St. Joseph.

Regis College and the Class of 2013 is grateful for the Sisters' vision and guidance at Regis College. We proudly dedicate the 2013 Regis College Yearbook to the active Sisters of St. Joseph of Boston at Regis College: S. Carmella Abbruzzese, S. Betty Cawley, S. Betsy Conway, S. Judith Costello, S. Mary Rita Grady, and S.Barbara Loud. Thank you for your lifetime of work and dedication.





From Our Presidents

Dear Class of 2013,

These past four years have rushed by us like the currents of river rapids. It seems like yesterday that we were soaking in the Regis surroundings for the first time as we sat in the Fine Arts Center, staring at a sea of bright Orientation Leader shirts. Their lessons on college life seemed so surreal. Our minds were busy elsewhere, filled with the thoughts of being cast into unfamiliar settings and finding our place. Everything seemed so new and so thrilling. As underclassmen, we shrugged aside any comments from our professors and upperclassmen about any notion of time. We were in the moment, discovering the college life for ourselves. For each of us, the river has led us in several directions, presenting different opportunities.

Yet here we are, four years later, staring at the end of our time at Regis. No matter where we have traveled on our journey, we have all met at the same point, our graduation. An ocean lies stretched before us, with limitless possibilities beyond the horizon. Our stories are etched in the sands of time, and in the memories of those we have touched at Regis. In twenty years, do not forget how you came to be where you are. The trek back to Regis is not difficult; you need only to open the pages of this book. Regis will always be available to you, no matter how far life takes you from Weston. Do not forget the people who have helped shaped you, the times you shared here, and the legacy you have written. The future may seem frightening at times, and the waves of uncertainty may crash down on you, but stay strong. You will always find your fondest Regis memories immortalized in these pages, to reflect upon and give you strength until you reach calm waters. Do not fear the unknown, for we are prepared to leave Regis in search of new territory. May fortune guide you through all of your days. I wish you all the best.

Sincerely,
Andrew Blanchette, President
Student Government Association

Dear Class of 2013,

As I write this letter, a bittersweet feeling is welling up inside of me. So much has changed since our first year. Though we have shared many happy moments, this has also been an extremely tough year for Regis. We lost two special pillars of our community, Darner Alteon and our fellow senior, Mike Kaplan. Although they are not with us, they still live within us through our memories of them. Mike was always full of jokes. It was a rare day that his guitar playing did not fill the hallways. Such a lively spirit will never die, and we should work to instill the same joy Mike always radiated in our own lives, even during times of hardship.

Though I never imagined that I would be class president, it is an honor to write this letter and wish you the best of luck on your future endeavors. Although it seems like yesterday when we were becoming acquainted with our orientation leaders as first year students, it is almost time to say our goodbyes, at least for now. I can say with confidence that this year, we have grown closer as a class. Our class has become more involved, whether decorating hoops or going on the senior pub crawl. The memories of our senior events will live on. This is not the end, but the beginning of a new life for us. Regis has prepared us for the new roads we will travel. I know we will all accomplish great things.

Good luck in all that you do and take all the memories you have from here with you.

Best Wishes,
Alli Schmoker, President

Letters from the Editors

Congratulations class of 2013! Half a page is not enough to express how proud I am of all of you! We have all worked immeasurably to get to this final moment of our undergraduate careers. While our final year proved to be more difficult than ever anticipated, we have never been closer as a class and community. I hope that this yearbook conveys "our story" over the past four years, as we have called Regis College our home.

As you look though this yearbook, I hope you reflect on your beginnings and think about how you got to where you are now. The memories that we have all made here at Regis College will stay with us forever, and with this book you will be able to look back on your time here. From photographs of clubs and athletics, to activities and events, these pictures should bring a smile to your face and warmth to your heart.

I would like to thank my Co-Editor-in-Chief Colleen Ryan, our staff, all those who contributed and our advisor, Dr. Sara Weintraub.

From the very bottom of my heart, I wish each and every one of you, Class of 2013, a bright and successful future post graduation. In the wise words of Elle Woods, "We did it!"

Molly Gentilucci, Editor-in-Chief

Congratulations Class of 2013!

I'm not sure how "congrats" can cover all the all-nighters we did, the meetings we were late or early to, the tests we thought we failed, or did, the days we could relax, and the days we felt like we'd never be able to breathe again, but I hope it suffices.

Personally, I would like to thank my Co-Editor-in-Chief Molly Gentilucci. I could not have asked for a better partner! I give a million thanks to Dr. Weintraub who has worked with Molly and me day and night over the past eight months. Also, to our amazing staff members who took time out of their busy days to make this a memorable experience. Finally, thanks to my friends and family who always support me.

I hope you are excited to move onto the next step in your life, and I wish you all the best! You all deserve it, and in my Irish-American fashion, I'll leave you with an Irish blessing to take with you:

"May you always be blessed with walls for the wind, a roof for the rain, a warm cup of tea by the fire, laughter to cheer you, those you love near you, and all that your heart might desire."

We would like to give a huge thank you to those who had an important hand in making this yearbook. Dan Smith of Herff Jones dealt with our many changes, gave us great advice, and lent his professional hand in its publication. We would also like to thank Elena DeFelice, Christopher Barroso, Virginia Vogt and Brad Moore for all of your help. Most of all, to Dr. Sara C. Weintraub who was not only a close mentor, but a gracious, fun-loving and dedicated advisor. Thanks for staying late on campus and skipping lunch to meet with us on many occasions. We could not have done this without you.

After finishing 4th in the NECC in 2011, the team, led by Co-captains Caroline Roche and Kendall Kolb, took the conference championship in 2012. Joined by juniors Maryse Emungu and Paige Pasley and sophomores YaYa Chum and Erika Palmer, the Pride grew stronger with the addition of four first year students, Jazz Hicks, Melinda Mara, Jewel Medeiros and Abbie Wehr. The team won 11 of 12 matches in the regular season, including a 9 and 1 record in the NECC and went on to beat Newbury in the semifinals and Baypath in the finals to cap off a stellar season. Abbie Wehr was named the New England Collegiate Conference's Co-Player of the Year. Wehr was joined on the NECC First Team All-Conference singles team by Jazz Hicks and Jewel Medeiros. Wehr and Hicks were also honored on the NECC First Team All-Conference Doubles Team as were Medeiros and junior Caroline Roche.

2012-2013 marked the fourth year for the Regis Men's Tennis team. With the return of all of last year's team, including sophomore Mike Beluch, 2012 NECC Rookie and Player of the Year; juniors Jeff Parrish and Co-Captain Andy White, both 1st Team All-Conference in 2012; and seniors, Mouhamed Diallo, Sophorn Nop and Co-Captain Matt Smolko, the Pride looked to better last year's second place finish in the NECC. This talented group, joined by two solid first year students, Austin Nace and Biruk Legesse, put in serious hours on the court during the summer and last fall in their quest for the NECC crown. The Pride played three tough matches last fall against two DII teams and a team from the Commonwealth Coast Conference and went to Hilton Head, SC for Spring TennisFest, getting practice time and four more matches in before the 2013 conference season.

Women's Soccer

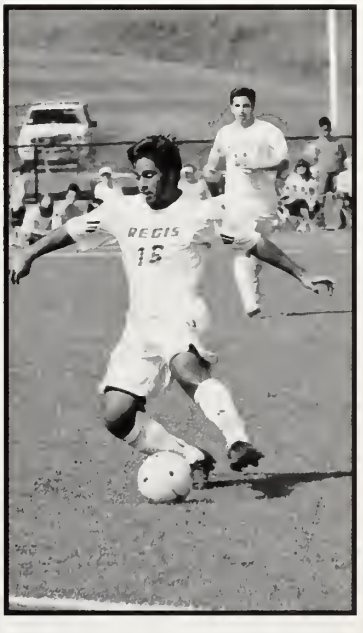
his past season was the most successful soccer season for the men's program in school history. The team made the onference playoffs for the first time and hosted a first ever home playoff game, one of its first ever tournament ames. The team beat Daniel Webster and made it to the tournament semifinals! This season also saw two players amed to the All-Conference Team, forward Steve Tavares (1st Team) and Goalkeeper Stefan Todorovic (2nd Team). s important, the team also found its identity by proving that it could beat anyone within the conference due to its never say die" attitude that was on display at every single game. The future looks very bright for the Pride as this ear welcomed many new first year students including Renato Rosas, Kenny Charron, Graham Sutherland and Cody uglisi.



Women's Volleyball

Regis College Women's Volleyball team began its season with a lot of new players, new coaching staff and lots of questions. The season began and continued to prove to be a test of the team's integrity, determination and dedication. The integration of new players and coaching style kicked the season off with a few bumps. Through resilience and faith in one another, the team was able to pull together with a strong finish and push into the playoffs. This marked a season of firsts: first home playoff match, first advancement to the semis and first ever appearance in the NECC Championship. The team was hopeful and left their hearts on the court against Southern Vermont, but their skills were surpassed as the title was nearly reached. With a successful season on their backs, confidence and high expectations, the team is anxious for next season. Special congratulations to Kristen Amicangioli, and Megan Pratt. "We Run On E."

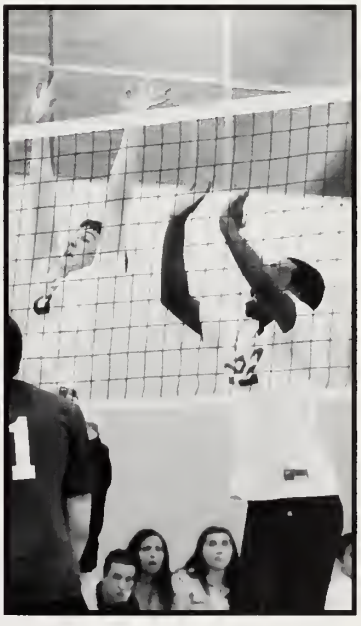
he Regis College Men's Volleyball team had the most successful season to date. The Pride proved their hard work was rtainly not in vain. Regis Men's Volleyball has continued to grow and develop despite any obstacles the team has faced. With rd work and determination, the team has undoubtedly begun to lay the framework for a successful program for years to me. Despite having played the season with a mere team of eight players, the Pride certainly reiterated the importance of uality versus quantity. Co-captain of the volleyball team, Christopher Tran, graduates this year.



Field Hockey

The 2012-2013 Field Hockey team was led by Co-captains, juniors Kym Kerr and Stacy Burns and by Assistant Captain, sophomore Katie Blackburn. After coming off a championship from the 2011-2012 season, the Pride fell short of heading of into championship play again by losing to Wheelock in the playoffs. With the veterans returning, no one graduating, and the addition of incoming first year students, the team is confident they will be able to continue the tradition of success next season.

This year, under first year coach James Sweeney, the teams practiced hard and the results showed. At the GNAC Championships, the teams broke one school record (Alex Graf), 5 pool records, and 18 GNAC records. During the season, he teams swam against some tough competition but had great individual and team success including another school record breaking swim (Nick Yerzyk) in a dual meet. Over the holiday break, the teams spent a week in Puerto Rico in order to ocus solely on training. At the New England Championships, the athletes placed several swimmers in the top 16, made everal ECAC time standards, and broke another 3 school records (Nick Yerzyk - 1, Alex Graf - 2). In a final time trial event, Alex Graf broke another school record in the 400 IM. The final competition was the ECAC Championships held at Harvard in March. Brenna Melanson, Haley Bowen, and Alex Graf were named Regis Student-Athletes of the Week.

Women's basketball had another outstanding year, led by senior Sabree Rodriguez, junior Claire Ramonas and sophomore Emilee Marro. Each player averaged scoring in double figures for the Pride. Sophomores Janaya Bradley and Kim Daniels played key roles for the Pride, along with junior Lauren Kimble who led the Pride in 3-point shooting percentage. The Pride picked up a late transfer Monet Lowe who came in second semester and gave much needed depth. First year students, Taylor Bunkley and Nikki Strizzi gave the Pride much needed scoring off the bench. Alyssa Lanpher had a great year playing back-up point guard and Alli Conley and Michaela Maguire came off the bench to give the Pride more depth at the post.

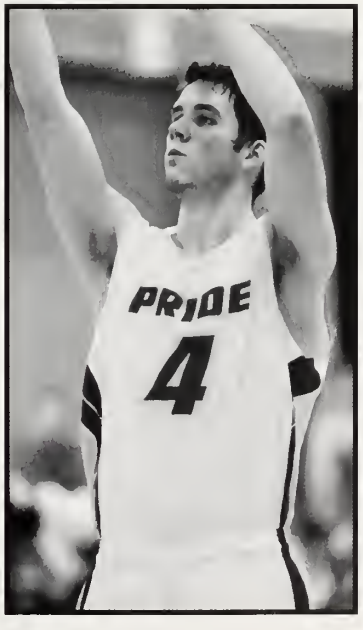
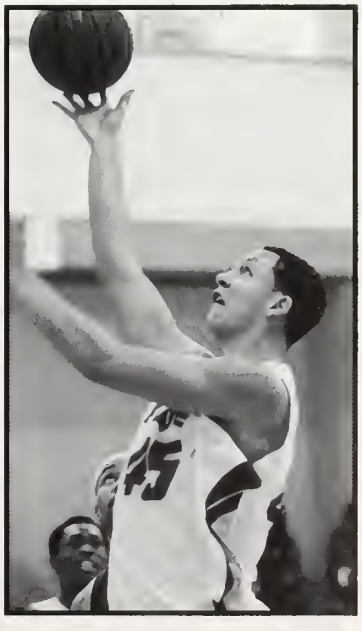
The basketball team was an exciting group to watch during the 2012-2013 season. Led by Captains Ryan Chambers and Osanto Marc, the team performed well in conference play producing a record of 13-5. The team finished the regular season on a 6 game winning streak earning them the 3 seed in the NECC playoffs. In the post season, the Pride matched up with Daniel Webster in the quarter-finals. The Pride were down 7 points with 3 minutes left in the game before the team rallied around first year point guard Carlos Bermudez-Glean to overcome the deficit and move to the semi-final round. In the semi-final round, Regis met conference rival Newbury College for the 3rd time this season. The game went into overtime and a jumper by Ahmad Charles helped the Pride advance to its first NECC Championship in the program's history. The team fell to Elms College in the conference final, concluding their impressive 2012-2013 season. The future looks promising for the Pride as this season's team was made up of 3 juniors, 5 sophomores, and 7 first year students The NECC recognized Ryan Chambers, Osanto Marc, and Carlos Bermudez-Glean as members of the NECC All-Conference team. In addition, Head Coach Nathan Hager was named NECC Coach of the Year for his hard work and dedication.

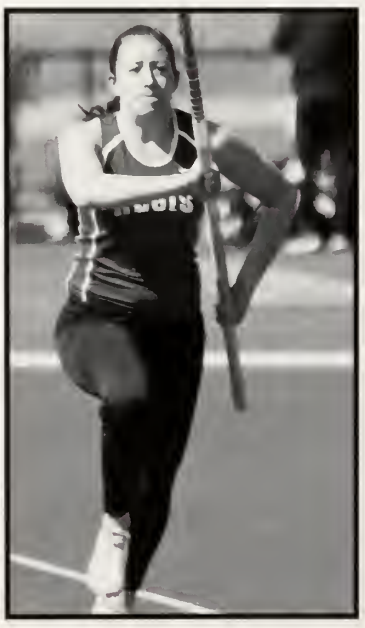




Track & Field

The 2012-2013 Track & Field season was filled with new leadership and some welcomed surprises. Led by Captain Anyah Hernandez, the team stuck together as the search for a new head coach spanned four months. In January, the new head coach, Dan Flynn was hired and things took off. The team welcomed newcomers Matt Owens and Santi Strickland to the sprinting program. Both led by running times in their events that just missed the elusive qualifying times needed to run in the championship race at the end of the season.

From the veterans side, Paul Gionfriddo also came a few inches away from qualifying in the shot put. Junior Tori Rapsis is the leading pole vaulter for the team and she also came very close to qualifying by jumping 9 feet 6 inches in one meet. Star sprinter Jeremy Israel who qualified last year for two separate championship races was hampered this year with a nagging hamstring injury.



Softball

The 2013 softball season was led by captains Kara Donovan, senior; Shannon Bradish, junior; and Jill Bruning, sophomore. They were enhanced by a young string of dedicated, hard-working teammates that left everything out on the field. The energy, enthusiasm and commitment to the game they love and one another helped in making the season a successful one.

The Regis College Women's Lacrosse team entered the 2013 season with hopes of improving upon its then-best ever 2012 season record of 9-4. The team was led by Tri-captains Kristen Amicangioli, Andrea Barbosa, and Grace Politis.

t was a season of highs and lows for the Men's Lacrosse team this year With the loss of senior Michael Kaplan occurring the day before our fall ball season was set to commence, our team's focus and dedication was shifted toward honoring our fallen teammate. His legacy will forever be remembered with the retiring of his jersey, Number 37, and the memorial plaque which was unveiled prior to our Senior Day on April 20, 2013. What began as a tough start to the year, ended in triumph with strong unity among the squad both on and off the field. In addition, we graduated three seniors. Seniors Brody McCauley, Andrew Goldberg and Stephan Bottex were among the inaugural class of Men's Lacrosse back in 2009. They leave the team with a good solid base, excitement and history.
